

A Visit to The National Gallery, London to include a
A Highlights Tour of the National Gallery's Collection
Thursday 23 May from 11.30 am – Independent Travel
(Limited to 25 places –TASLEA members only)

This is a particularly exciting year to visit the National Gallery as it celebrates its bicentenary in May.

In March our lecture will be 'Behind the Scenes at the National Gallery' with Sian Walters. We have planned this complementary visit, a guided tour of the most important artworks in the collection, to be both educational and enjoyable.

We will travel independently by train to Waterloo and make our way to the National Gallery. There will be plenty of time before our guided tour for refreshments, tea, coffee etc. Afterwards, there are a number of options for lunch including Muriel's Kitchen in the Gallery or the Buffet in the Crypt of St Martin in the Field next door.

If you wish to extend your day, the National Portrait Gallery is adjacent to the National Gallery and has recently reopened after a huge refit. It looks magnificent, entrance is free and you can explore British Portraits from Tudor Times to the 21st Century or even book to see one of their exhibitions.

Cost: £ 20.00 pp. (exclusive of travel costs, refreshments, and lunch)
